ANOTHER YEAR-
ANOTHER STEP FORWARD

1965--Another year, another step forward. 1965 --The world greets Jackson Central's Class of '65.

And so we, the Class of '65, enter the hustling, bustling world of the 20th Century to witness the marvels of the Atomic Age, undreamed of by teenagers a century ago, constantly striving toward our goals and dreaming of the past.

As 350 students and 25 teachers entered the halls of Jackson Central in the fall, each of them started to take a step which would lead a step further in their lives and educations.

These steps took them to homecomings, the Halloween party, class plays, soc hops, club meetings, athletic contests, classes, the Christmas dance, final exams, the Junior-Senior Prom, Baccalaureate, and finally Commencement.

For the seniors of 1965, these steps paved the end of the beginning. We were led to colleges, to homes, to jobs, and to the Armed Forces of the United States.

The underclassmen will be led to a new school called Hamilton Heights, the consolidated high school of Jackson and White River Townships.

Many steps await the underclassmen as they prepare to go out and seek their fortunes. These steps will lead many different ways as they all enter different fields of business and education.

As the steps bring the students to a close of the 1964-1965 school year, they can look back and see the many activities in which they have participated. They can also look forward and see that the consolidation of Jackson Central and Walnut Grove is another step forward in their education.

So we, the Class of '65, picturing the world of our future through the eyes of bio-chemists, housewives, psychologists, teachers, laboratory technicians, doctors, and coaches, say, "So long, Jackson Central. We will never forget you."

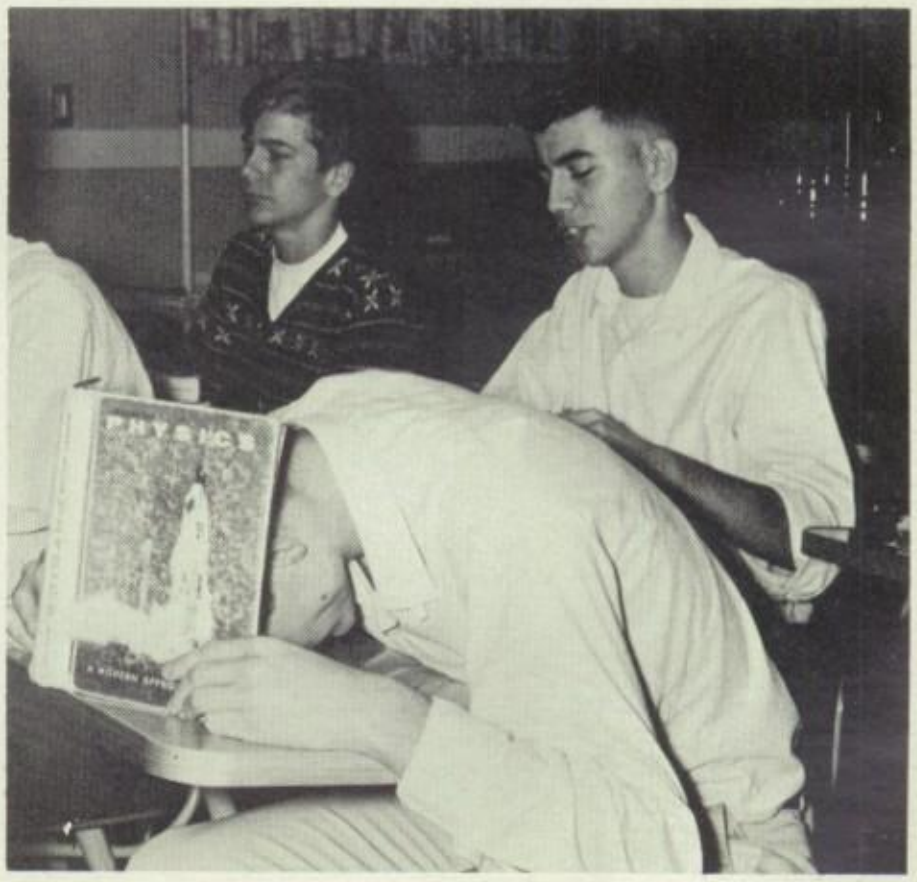
ACADEMICS

Another year spent in the forward surge to a promising future--the Jackson Central students realize that education is an important basis of democracy. Where illiteracy exists, there exists the iron claw of Communism. The students visualize the world of their future, the product of a good high school education and four years well spent.

The 3 R's no longer compose the normal curriculum. Well-rounded students must acknowledge the world around them through such studies as foreign languages, history, government, and science. Although they may dislike homework, tests, and term papers, they will forever be thankful to the teachers who cared enough to make them learn.



LANGUAGE, THE CORNERSTONE OF NATIONS, BUILDS

Mrs. Wiseman patiently assists the members of her junior English class.

Mrs. Recobs demonstrates the operation of the tacomatic machine to Linda Day.

Personification, alliteration, prepositional phrases. These are just a few of the new expressions introduced to the English students this year. While the seniors struggled with "Macbeth," the freshmen enjoyed "Great Expectations." The juniors presented "Our Town" in class while the sophomores staged "Julius Caesar" and "The Miracle Worker."

All classes also participated in the Vocabulary Workshop and Developmental Reading programs, as well as writing several themes each semester.

The new tachomatic machine helped students increase their reading speeds and comprehensions, while the vocabulary exercises enlarged the students' use of words.

With four years of English required, the students of Jackson Central are well prepared for their step into the world of words.

HIGH IDEALS AND NEW IDEAS

Junior Lee Ann Coy models an example of ancient Roman dress, as worn by all members to the Latin Banquet.

Although most students know some foreign phrases, the student who has completed two years of a foreign language has mastered many more new and strange expressions.

French I and Spanish II were added to the Curriculum this year. Latin was again a popular subject with over forty students learning about ancient civilizations.

Although many of the students who attempted to master these trying languages will not use their speaking knowledge to a great extent, they have learned much about the cultures of these countries.

Mrs. Davis checks on some French grammar as students present their work.

Pam Spidel and Laurel Chandler point out scenic spots on some Spanish travel posters.

JCHS'ERS TAKE MANY STEPS TO DISCOVER

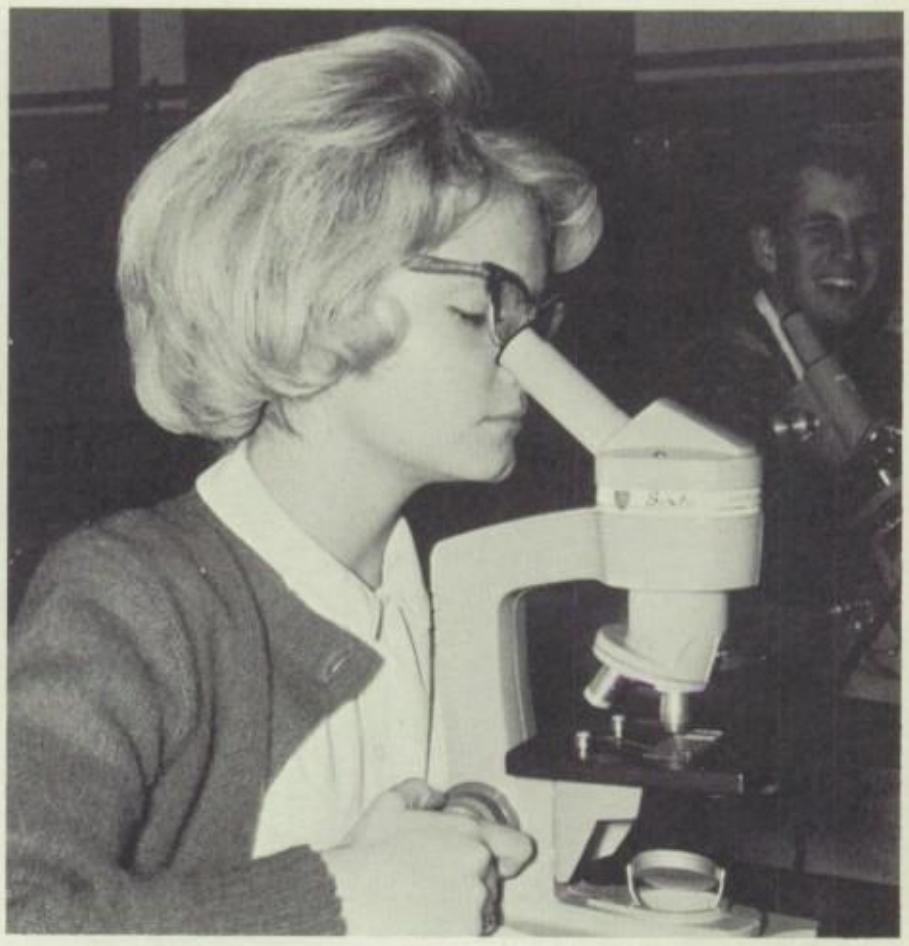
Which wheels are turning in the heads of these juniors? Scientific experimentation is the basis for learning in a laboratory science.

All Americans are affected directly or indirectly by the birth of the "Space Age." We are now living in a world unheard of 40 years ago. How many people could visualize the rockets and cars that are second nature to us?

Many of the famous scientists and mathematicians had their beginnings in little red school houses. Although we no longer attend little red school houses, many students are receiving instruction which may make future inventors or great scientists of them.

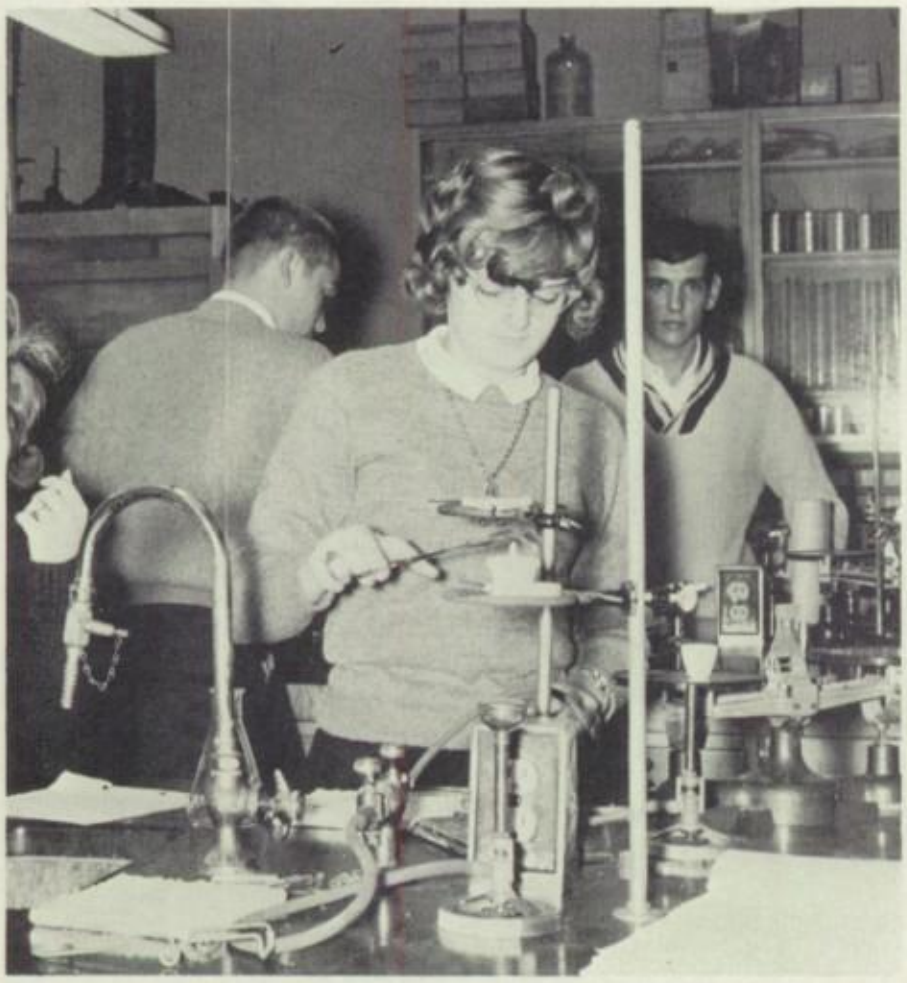
The new math room equipment installed last summer is the pride and joy of Mr. Henricks.

Mr. Keesleing's patience never ends in his teaching of algebra.



Linda Faulstich and other biology students become experts of the microscope.

SECRETS OF MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE



"What's cooking, Laurel?" Laurel Chandler experiments with heated sulfur.

A four-year mathematics course starts with beginning algebra and advances to geometry, advanced algebra, and trigonometry with emphasis on practical mathematics. Knowledge of space will come through efficiency in mathematics. The teaching of mathematics is simplified by the addition of the new mathematics room, the only one of its kind in Hamilton County.

Science courses vary from physical science, biology, and advanced biology to chemistry and physics taught in the well-equipped biology and chemistry laboratories. Intelligence in physics, physical science, and chemistry will help to produce a rocket ship and get it into space, but knowing biology and advanced biology will be necessary for life in space.

The proper teaching of science and mathematics will create the success or failure of our Jackson Township community in the "Space Age."

ELECTION '64 KEPT STUDENTS GUESSING

Seniors Candi James and Bob Henderson are shown here in a friendly political argument during the election.

The election of 1964 played a big part in the government and history classes this year. The senior government classes made scrapbooks of the Election Day results and the events leading up to them. The students of JCHS held a mock election, and President Johnson and Senator Humphrey emerged victorious over Republicans Goldwater and Miller in a landslide vote as it was on the national level.

After the election, the classes continued their usual studies in United State government, United States history, and world history.

The inauguration of President Johnson was another highlight of the year, as many students watched the event from start to finish via television.

At the beginning of the second semester, sociology was added to the social studies curriculum.

At the end of the year, a more informed young America steps into a new light.

Mr. McGeath points out a historical site in Indiana to one of his classes.

STUDENTS FIND OPPORTUNITIES IN BIG BUSINESS

Students in beginning bookkeeping are busy concentrating on a new and difficult business transaction.

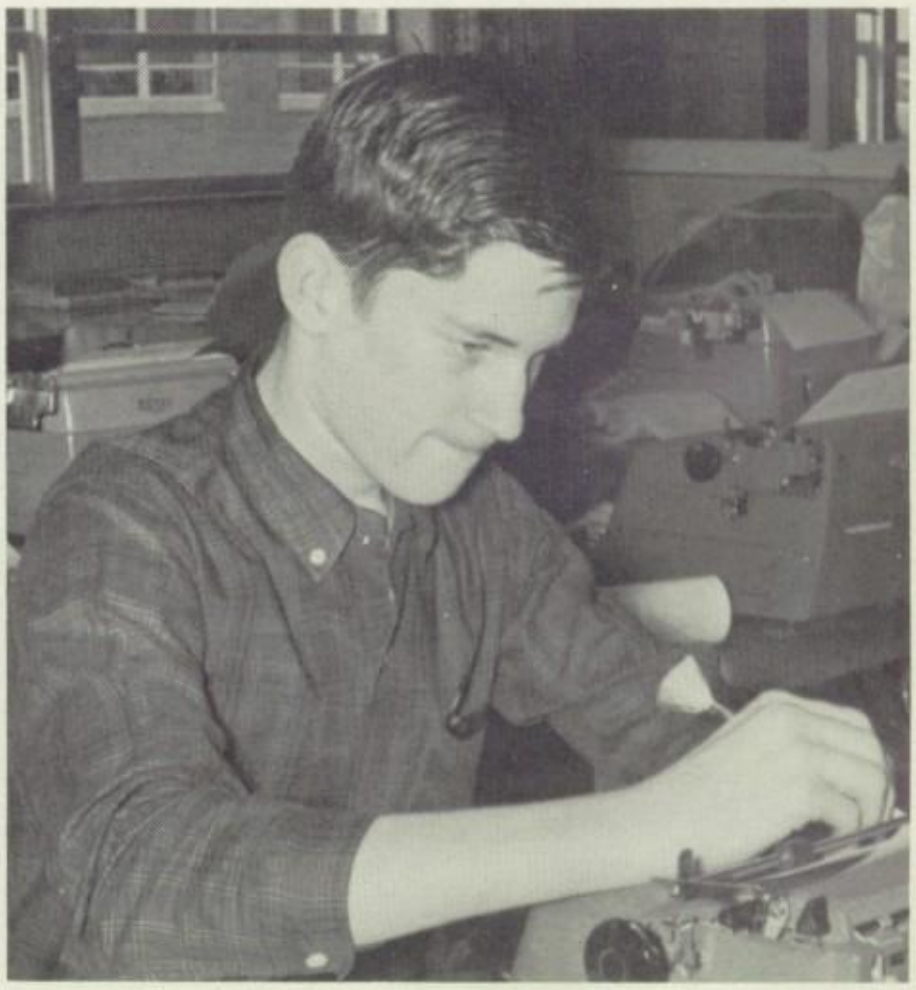
Learning to type, take dictation, enter business transactions in ledgers, and recognize valid contracts, the students enrolled in the business education courses at Jackson Central were surely kept busy.

Taking a timed writing is a big job, but many of the typing students found themselves typing sixty words per minute or even more.

The typing classes performed an important duty for the school by mimeographing the programs for special convocations and also typing and duplicating the school paper, the "Eagle's Cry."

The business students worked hard this year to be able to step into the world of "big business" with the required basic knowledge.

Erase, erase, erase. Mike Tharp has made a mistake and is diligently trying to correct it.



THERE'S A SONG IN THE AIR...

"We're loyal to you, Central High.." As the singing voices fade and the instruments are stored in their cases, we look back on a year filled with music.

What would a football game be like if the band weren't there to play after every touchdown? What would Christmas be without the chorus singing Christmas carols?

The band and chorus played a big part in making the school year an enjoyable one. They added their musical touch to almost every event.

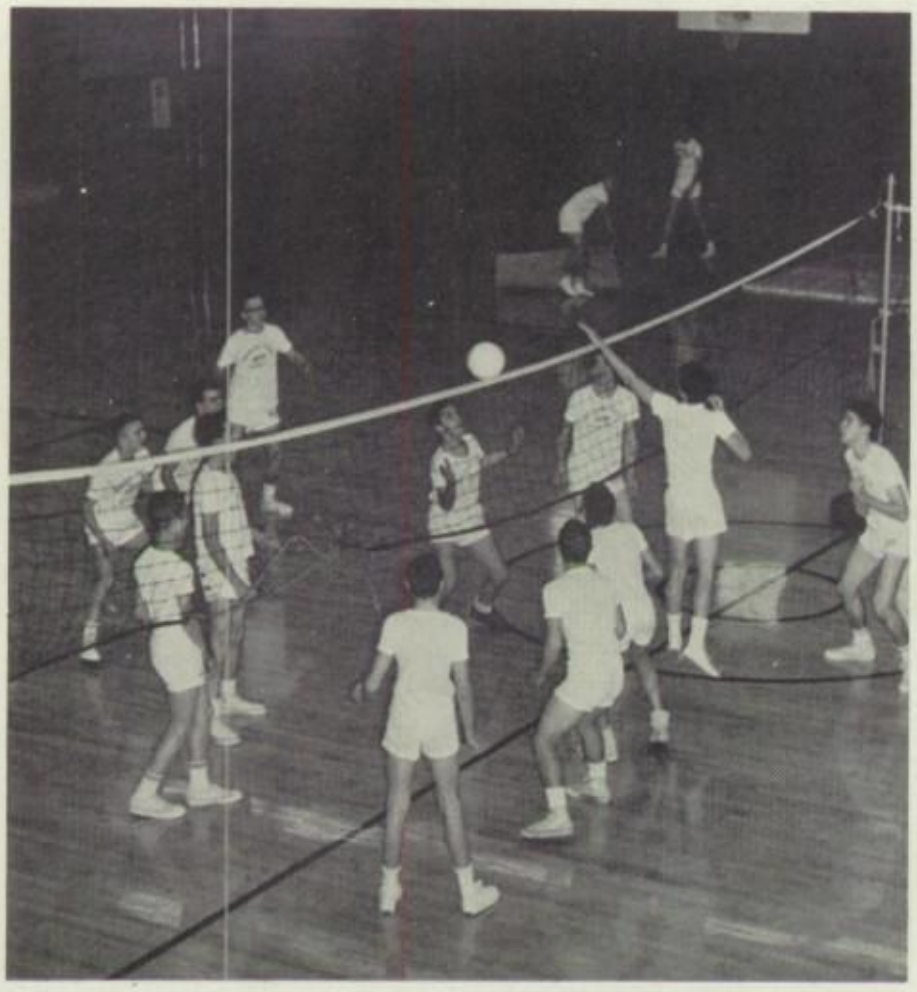
Every morning during first period, you could hear the chorus singing loud and clear. Fifth period, the band came through with hearty songs.

The year was brimming with music--Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter, and the Spring Music Festival.

Mr. Lash explains a difficult passage in "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" as the band members listen attentively.

Cheering in the Christmas season, the chorus runs through a few bars of "Silver Bells" accompanied by Mrs. Stone in preparation for the annual Christmas program.

A HEALTHY BODY BUILDS A BRIGHT FUTURE



There is nothing like a little practice before the game gets under way in the freshman physical education class.

Barb Kerfoot demonstrates the proper form to be used on the trampoline as her classmates look on.

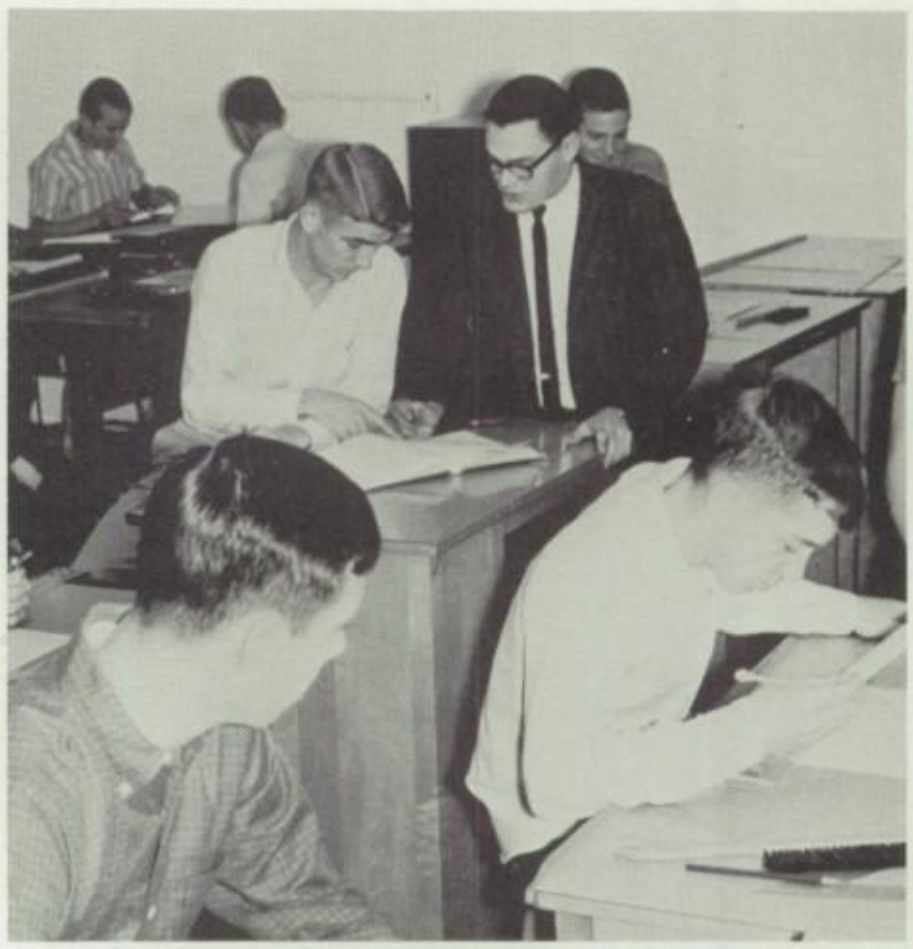
Physical fitness is the prime objective for the youth of today. Not only must one have a healthy body. Both high school health and physical education help one to achieve this goal.

With daily exercise and nourishing food, students grow straight and tall into their places in the world.

Girls' and boys' physical education classes are conducted in a similar manner with many of the same sports and exercises taught in both. Students familiarize themselves with the procedures of shuffle board, ping pong, gymnastics, basketball, parallel bars, archery, baseball, softball--all for enjoyment more than for future use.

Mr. Bauchert explains bone structure of the human body to sophomore Doug Hyatt.

Modern design has found its way into Jackson Central as it has all over the world, as exhibited in this work by Alice Rigsby.



The architects of the future slave over intricate plans.

VOCATIONAL COURSES OFFER STUDENTS PRACTICAL

Art this year has been an exciting journey into the land of the modern. The students learned the modern aspect of everything from the common seed to modernistic sculpture. They learned to see the world through different eyes.

The drafting class may produce some of the "homes of the future." With all of the blueprints that they have drawn, there must be one in there someplace. The boys have worked hard and accomplished very good results.

Shop is another important field of study. The boys cover many things in this area ranging from building beautiful pieces of furniture to taking apart a gasoline engine to see "how the thing works."

Art, drafting, and shop send the young people in our school on the road to a good future and a solid career.

Mr. Rardon demonstrates the use of the lathe to the shop class.

Mr. Barbour points out the different sections of beef as he lectures to a class of America's farmers of tomorrow. Along with this, the boys study other phases of agriculture such as modern agricultural improvements.

SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

Preparing students for their future lives in the home and on the farm are the vocational home economics and agriculture courses, taught by Mrs. Day and Mr. Barbour.

The girls in the home economics classes learn about cooking, sewing, home management, child care, and interior decorating. Several times each week during the first semester tantalizing smells could be caught drifting into the halls. Second semester, the girls learned to make clothes which would look sharp and also fit.

To be come a good farmer takes many long years of hard work. The boys enrolled in the agriculture course know this and want a head start. By learning about the new and better techniques, these boys can enter the farming world ready for the ever-prevalent challenge to do better than the preceding generation.

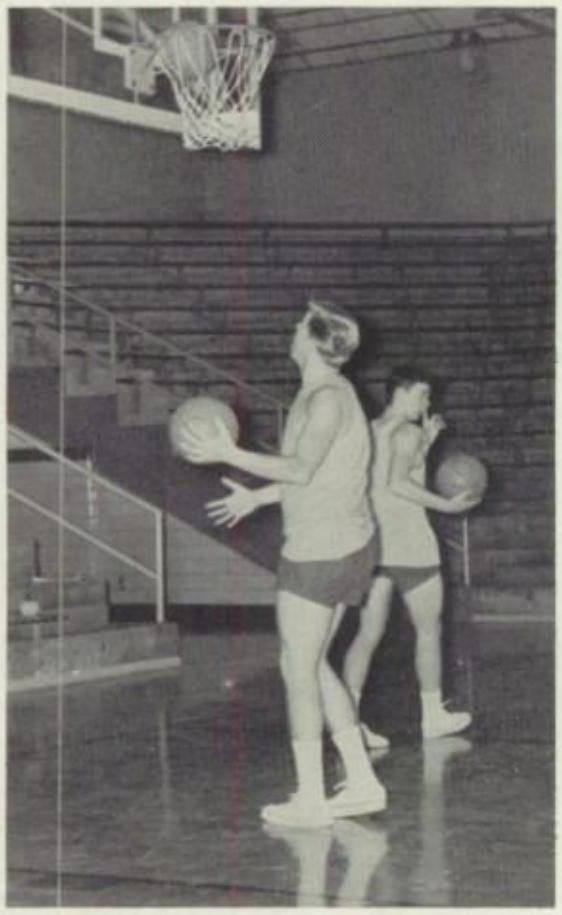
ATHLETICS



"I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, sweat, and tears."

These words spoken by the great British statesman Sir Winston Churchill, symbolized the spirit of the Jackson Central athletes.

Victory was never out of sight as the mighty Eagles paced their way down the tangled path, chopping away defeats and erecting victories. Troubles were shunned and cast by the wayside with the defeated competitors.

Nations are defended and wars won through blood, toil, sweat, and tears--school spirit is composed of these things.

WITH PRACTICE AND

Practice, practice, and more practice! Ready-set, go, HIKE!

The season started with a home game with Chatard, and Chatard walked off the field winners for the first time, 13-6.

The Eagles' first victory came at Clinton Prairie, 27-21, in a see-saw, passing battle. The game was won in the last quarter with a 74-yard pass from quarterback Dan Clements to ace end and halfback, Gary Browning.

Victory number two came at the expense of Western on the loser's rain-soaked field. A safety was the only score of the first half, but Central came back with three TD's to win, 20-6.

Three in a row came at home, with Clinton Central serving as the victims, 14-13. Don Tudor's blocked extra point proved to be the winning tactic.

Central's attempt for four in a row fell short at undefeated Carmel's Homecoming, 21-6.

Upon falling victims to a Homecoming team, the Eagles tried to atone themselves at their own Homecoming, but Westfield took care of them 26-13, in an injury-prone game for both teams.

Royerton came to J.C. and got beat 21-7 in Central's Lad and Dad game; underclassmen started on offense, but seniors shone on defense. Dave Leach broke his wrist and was out the remainder of the season.

Eastern's domineering football machine whipped the Eagles 47-0 on the winner's field.

Central's season was closed with a 28-7 victory at Sheridan, to make the Eagles' season mark 5-4-0.

At the football banquet later in the year, Don Tudor received the Most Valuable Player Award and the Tackling Trophy; Dan Clements was named Honorary Captain; Tom Moore was awarded the Most Improved Senior Award; and Gary Browning took away the Ball Hawk Trophy. Steve Mills won the Most Valuable Manager award.

PERSEVERANCE, THE GRID SEASON WAS SUCCESSFUL

Being a football manager is not a life of ease as Senior Managers Steve Mills, Dave Legg, and Paul Coverdale found out.

Gary Browning evades a would-be tackler as he runs on to score one of the many touchdowns scored by the Eagles this season.

ORGANIZATIONS

Jackson Central students advanced another step through participation in organizational activities. These organizations, formed to attain a special goal, showed the individuality of interested members in the services they performed for the organizations.

Soc hops, field trips, fish fries, school decorations, student teaching, dances, clubs, and honorary organizations all found their places in the activities of the JC'er.

Indeed, activities help make well-rounded individuals and leaders of the future.

MEETING DEADLINES IS HARD WORK

Any big project presents giant-sized problems. Producing the JACKSONIAN took the extremely hard work of the senior class and the advice of Mrs. Day, now in her second year of yearbook instruction. The production gears moved around the members of the annual staff and advertising committee pounding constantly "meet that deadline."

But with all the hard work still in mind, the annual staff thanks Mrs. Day wholeheartedly for her patience and great assistance.

STUDENT COUNCIL FACES J. C. PROBLEMS

To become a member of the Student Council is one of the highest honors a high school student can receive. This co-ordinator of student body activities is composed of three representatives from each class. It sponsors basketball and football homecomings, the Halloween party, and various other activities throughout the year. Chosen as Council officers were:

President: Becky Costomiris
Vice-President: Dave Leach
Secretary: Connie Anderson
Treasurer: Steve Ehman
Sponsors: Mrs. Atkins
Mr. Haynes

Members of the Student Council traveled to various workshops and conferences during the summer. Jane Sumner and Charles Flowers represented J.C. at the State Summer Workshop at I.U. as two of approximately 150 delegates from all over Indiana. They set their sights on improving Student Council work. Becky Costomiris was one of 12 Indiana delegates to the National Student Council Conference in Bangor, Maine. As one of 540 representatives from 44 states and two foreign nations, she received instructions in promoting better school spirit and carrying out Student Council obligations.

TORCH AND SCROLL BRIGHTENS SCHOOL IMAGE

The Jackson Central Torch and Scroll Chapter of the National Honor Society, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Recobs and Mr. Haynes, is the honorary organization toward whose membership many strive. The high qualities that must be attained by candidates for membership include good character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

Of the activities selected by this organization for the betterment of the student body are the establishment of an honor roll to be listed each six weeks and the distribution of the SQ3R Method of Study for the use of each student.

Mrs. McKinney and her able typing students mimeographed the paper.

STUDENTS DISPLAY JOURNALISTIC ABILITY

Relaying the news of Jackson Central to the other Hamilton County schools is the responsibility of the Hamil-Teenian staff. This paper serves as a news media for the seven county high schools. The Nobles-ville Daily Ledger sponsors this paper and its annual Christmas Ball at which Miss Hamil-Teenian is crowned. Writers for the Hamil-Teenian are Dav Wright, Grace McNew; Mrs. Recobs, adviser; Becky Costomiris, J.C. editor; Kathy Carson; and Dan Egler.

Teaching as an honorable profession is held high in the minds of numerous sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Through cadet teaching as members of the Future Teachers of America, they learn the rewards and disappointments of the teaching field.

PERSONALITIES

From the smallest first grader to the school board, Jackson Township school people are the greatest!

Attending grade school in the Cicero or Atlanta Elementary Schools, township students not only learned the three R's but also the latest in science, new math, and social studies. Entering junior high school, they became friends with those from opposite ends of the township and continued the learning process they had begun so well. Prepared for high school, they stepped into a whirlwind of new and inviting activities. Having progressed through four years of preparing for the future, they are ready to step into a life in the community, attend college, or begin a career in a large city.

Their own hard study made graduation possible only with the interest of the teachers, principal, school board, superintendent, the parents and taxpayers that pushed them through.

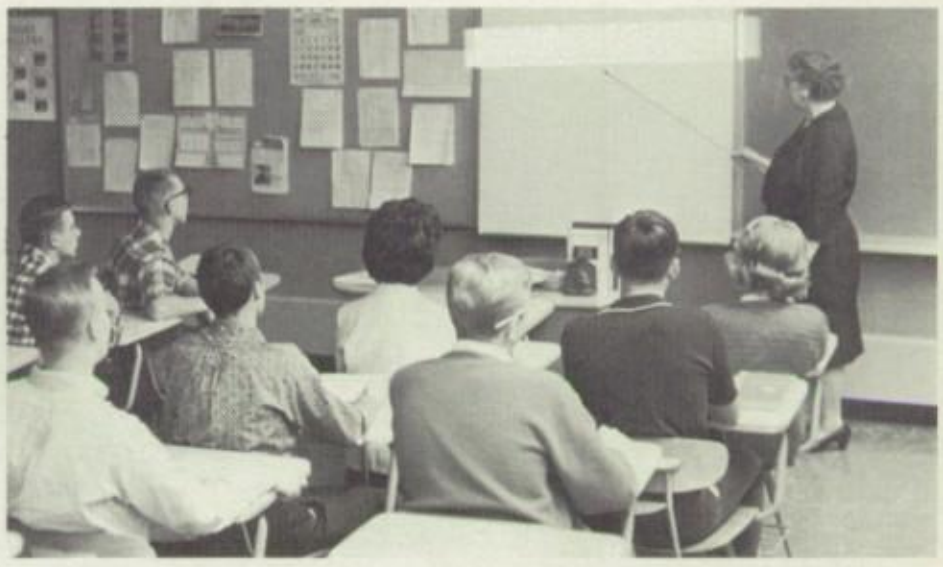
STUDENTS TO THE FUTURE AND SUCCESS

If you had x + 5 dimes, what would you have? Mr. Keesling explains the problem to his beginning algebra class.



Mrs. Recobs, senior English teacher, instructs the class in the use of the Controlled Reader, designed to improve the students' reading speeds and comprehension.

Mr. Shea points out a detailed architectural drawing to Bill Yeary as Jim Marcum looks on.

Not all the time in the classroom is spent in hard study as these freshmen discover in Mr. McGeath's world history class. There has to be some time for joking and fun.

BEHIND THE SCENES THEY ALL DID THEIR PART

Assisting Mr. Atkins in the Junior High Office are Sharon Watts, Neila Thatcher, Katie Cecil, Linda Day, Kay Cruzan, and Kathy Carson.

Typing tests and bulletins, collecting absence slips, and running errands for the faculty and administrators, Linda Moore (left) and Gail Clark (right) assist Mrs. Barbara Cook in the high school office.

SENIORS...KICKOFF OF THE YEAR SAW LBJ

Mr. McGeath, Senior Sponsor

Mrs. Dunn, Senior Sponsor

It seems only yesterday that the seniors were coming in the doors of Jackson Central for the first time and now they have ended their high school career. Looking back over the years there are many memories for every senior.

As freshmen they shook while senior raid threatened around the corner and then it came leaving relief behind. Also that year the freshmen struggled through world history and freshman literature. The highlight of the year was receiving their class sweaters.

With the sophomore year came Silas Marner, biology, frogs, and ordering class rings.

The class rings arrived and started the junior year with a fun-filled whirlwind of hard work toward the senior trip. There were magazine sales, fish fries, concessions at the football and basketball games, and last but not least "Rest Assured."

The whirlwind became stronger and the seniors were whisked into their final year. There were more fish fries, more hard work, and a senior play, "Boarding House Reach." The long awaited senior trip arrived, followed by the prom and then... the end of twelve wonderful years of school as each senior received his diploma and stepped out into the world that lay ahead. The seniors bid farewell to the wonderful world of Jackson Central. May they never forget the many happy hours and wonderful experiences of their high school years.

The Higher You Rise,

The Broader the View!

ELECTED 36th PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

One of the privileges belonging to the Senior Class is the wearing of Senior Cords, and Jackson Central seniors truly outdid themselves this year in painting their cords.

Even sponsors have to work at fish fries.

Becky Costomiris, an outstanding senior, brought a great honor to both herself and her school when she won the Hamilton County D.A.R. Good Citizens Award in February.

THEN CAME "BOARDING HOUSE REACH" WITH PRACTICE,

"Work" is the most understood word in the English language to the Junior Class of Jackson Central. Working hard toward their senior trip, these students sponsored concessions and soc hops, sold magazines, and presented a class play.

Academic work proved to be a challenge also as they moved through U.S. History and English III. They learned that the United States has come a long way since its Constitution was ratified 176 years ago. They also associated Our Town with their own small towns of Atlanta, Arcadia, and Cicero.

While they didn't see very much of the ball games and didn't get to dance as much as they would have liked at the soc hops, they know that when they see the lights of New York, it will be worth all the work.

Dee Vestal finds that the preparation of any English theme requires serious concentration.

SOPHOMORES

PRESIDENT: Andy Illyes
VICE-PRESIDENT: John Bundy
SECRETARY: Marlene Thompson
TREASURER: Marsha Jackson

Three sophomores served as Junior Varsity cheerleaders: Marybeth Kelsey, Toni Costomiris, and Julie Scherer.

In their second year of high school, the more experienced sophomores were accustomed to all the activities of the school and settled down to the serious business of gaining the necessary knowledge to assure a successful future in their chosen fields. "What is the shortest distance between two points?" "Was Silas Marner really a miser?" "Do frogs hop when they're in the dissecting pan?"

With this extra knowledge acquired, the sophomores were ready to proceed into the last years of their education.

FRESHMEN

The freshmen stepped into high school, putting grade school and junior high life behind them. New opportunities in education and entertainment awaited them in their first year----football homecoming, homework, basketball homecoming, homework, soc hops, the Christmas dance, algebra, fish fries, world history, G.A.A., wrestling, cross country, class meetings, class officers, senior raid, homework, Great Expectations, parties, and more homework.

The freshmen experienced defeats and victories through hard work and the absence of it. But this was only the beginning. The next three trying years will test the ability and perseverance of these students.

And so it was onions to homework, teachers, and more homework; but that first year in high school was just great!

PRESIDENT:	Dick Egler
VICE PRESIDENT:	Gary Lykes
SECRETARY:	Brenda Mills
TREASURER:	Amy Rainwater

Senior Raid! Freshmen, run for your lives! The seniors are on the prowl! Senior Kathy Carson puts freshman Jane Sumner through one of her freshman duties.
